

enmore, wife of the late cononel of marines ghter Dorothy sail on the S. S. Chicago for

Underwood & Underwood

Great public funeral in Rome for a private in Italian army. Henry Torti, the soldier, already lame through an accident, demanded enrollment at the outbreak of the war. He was accepted, was severely wounded in battle, mounted a captured trench and died as he waved his plumed helmet and shouted: "Long live Italy! Forward Savoy!" Photo shows Gen. Eardino delivering address at funeral.

Underwood & Underwood

Sergt. Alvin York, the greatest American hero of the world war, speaking in a mission camp in Cincinnati, where he is attending a religious conference. York lives in the mountains of Tennessee and he rode the greater part of the way to Ohio on a pony.

P. A. A. Photo

Picture taken at the recent un-the Francis Scott Key Memorial at enry, near Baltimore. Note the on the arm and the other on foot e. The memorial is claimed to be single bronze figure ever cast.

International

Trowbridge Tittmann, Washington recently sang for the seventh time al Bach Festival.

Battalion staff officers of the colored high school cadets. Left to right, front row: Maj. Maurice Johnson, Maj.
Benjamin Branson. Second row: First Lieuts. Harry Mickey, James O. Williams, James P. Perry and Harry Vass.

Photo by Sourlock

Sheet metal shop of the Smallwood School.
The school recently entertained at a luncheon members of the school board and other Washingtonians interested in educational matters, and demonstrated through class work the excellent manual training system.

Photo by Prodigon

Domestic art class of Smallwood
School. All the dresses and hats in the photo were made by the girls.

Photo by Prodigon

Something new in the bathing suit line—a bathing frock and cape made of cretonne. It is worn by Miss Agnes Horan, and also has a parasol to match.

International

Col. Nicholas Selivanoff, who during the war was a commanding influence in the Russian army, now sells newspapers on the streets of Belgrade, where he is listed among the 50,000 Russian refugees.

International

Graystone, at the edge of Rock Creek Park, where the Secretary of State and Mrs. Hughes are spending the summer.

21st Century Press

